Who are hospice volunteers?

Hospice volunteers are people from our community; men and women, young and old, college students and retirees, from all walks of life; ordinary people with extraordinary compassion for others.

They share a common bond - an unselfish desire to give of their time to improve the end-of-life experiences of individuals and their loved ones dealing with a life-limiting illness.

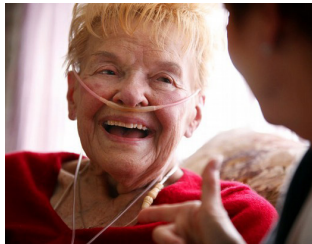

No medical training or medical background is necessary, nor is any prior experience with hospice.

What do hospice volunteers do?

In partnership with our patients and their families, a CHP Hospice volunteer provides comfort, support and care to help meet the physical, spiritual, and psychological needs of people living with a life-limiting illness.

They contribute to the health and well being of family members and survivors; and to help the communities we serve better understand end-of-life issues.

Our hospice volunteers spend time with patients and their loved ones. They provide caregiver relief, companionship, run errands, and provide supportive services.

They work alongside paid staff in every area including in-home and inpatient hospice, bereavement, and emotional/spiritual support.

Volunteers may also visit with patients, read to them, play a game, or simply provide company.

Hospice volunteer training

To become a certified hospice volunteer*, individuals must complete at least 15 hours of training. The training covers various aspects of hospice care including an exploration of end-of-life issues, the dying process, grief and loss, communication, spirituality, psychosocial issues, symptom control, physical care of the dying, and self care. The goal is to ensure that volunteers are thoroughly equipped for this rewarding challenge.

**Certification is required only for volunteers working directly with hospice patients.*

Adult Day Center:

Volunteers opportunities are also available at CHP's Adult Day Centers in Archbold, Celina, and Van Wert. These centers provide for the daily needs of elderly and disabled people and respite for their family caregivers.

Volunteers help with meals and activities and socialize with clients, working one-on-one or with a group. Most clients don't require a high level of assistance and staff and participants appreciate the time and effort that volunteers give.
